Dear Kamal,

Hello, my brother. How are you? I hope you are doing fine at home with everyone else. So, our family is planning to go on a holiday at the end of the year, right? Since you asked for my opinion on whether it is better for us to stay at the hotel or at the homestay, let me help you decide.

First, let us look at the hotel option. The hotel is in town and because of that, it will be quite busy during the school holiday. It will cost us RM150 per person. If we all go, we will have to pay RM900 per night, which I think is quite expensive. On a positive note, the hotel rooms come with complimentary breakfast. In addition, there is a swimming pool for us to relax and the hotel is close to the shopping complex. We can even shop at night! Since the hotel has air-cond, we will have a nice and cool place to relax after a tiring day.

Then, let us talk about the homestay. The homestay is located in the village. It will be calmer there with fresher air and less noise. The stay will cost us RM80 per person. Our family will only have to pay RM480 per night, but we will get the whole house to ourselves! We can do our own cooking for breakfast and lunch. For dinner, we can use the barbecue pit and play family games as we enjoy our food. Another good thing is that the homestay is closer to nature, which means we can relieve our stress. It also has a large living room for group activities.

Now that we have discussed both options, I think it is best to choose the homestay because it will provide more privacy and space for our family. We can also save money that way!

That is all from me for now. I hope this letter helps you make the best decision. Send my regards to our family. Goodbye.

Your sister,
hamilia
